

Part I – Agency Profile

Agency Overview

The Idaho Commission on the Arts, established as a state agency by the Legislature in 1966, is charged by state law (Idaho Code Title 67, Chapter 56 Section 5605) to:

“stimulate and encourage throughout the state the study and presentation of the performing and fine arts, and public interest and participation therein...” The Commission must also “encourage and assist freedom of artistic expression essential to the well-being of the arts.”

The Commission, funded primarily by the state of Idaho and the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA), is both a service organization with a professional staff offering technical assistance and training, and a funding organization providing financial assistance.

The Commission is governed by 13 commissioners from diverse ethnic and social backgrounds and from different geographical areas of the state, appointed by the Governor for terms of four years. The primary role of a commissioner is (1) to contribute to the defining of the agency’s mission and governing the fulfillment of that mission, and (2) to carry out the functions of the office of a commissioner and/or committee member as stated in the enabling legislation and Administrative Rules. A commissioner focuses on the development of broad policies that govern the implementation of the strategic plan, its goals and objectives. This role is separate and distinct from the role of the executive director, who determines the means of implementation.

The Commission, located in Boise, is authorized for 10 FTE and currently staffed at eight, including the executive director, deputy director, four program staff, and two administrative staff.

Core Functions/Idaho Code

Title 67, Chapter 56

Administratively directs the day to day operations of the agency.

Grants and Awards

- Public Programs in the Arts (PPA) and Entry Track grants provide ongoing, reliable support for public programs delivered by Idaho arts organizations. Amounts are based on a formula that includes each organization’s fiscal size, previous funding, and advisory panel scores assessing past performance. These grants folded together the previous General Operating Support, Project, and Special Project grants into a single program that decreased applicant effort and increased grant reliability. A combination of cash and in-kind match is required.
- Quarterly grants support arts project funding requested by individual artists, educators, schools, and community arts organizations that do not receive PPA or Entry Track funding. A combination of cash and in-kind match is required.
- Quarterly grants support professional development and consulting funds requested by individual artists, educators, schools, and community arts organizations. A combination of cash and in-kind match is required.
- Arts Education Project grants support activities that unite effective practices in education and the arts. They involve schools, teaching artists, and community organizations. A combination of cash and in-kind match is required.
- The Writer-in-Residence award is the state’s highest literary recognition. The writer shares his or her work through readings and events around the state, especially in rural communities. The Commission provides public information, travel, and scheduling assistance to the writer and the selected communities. No match is required.
- Fellowship grants to individual artists support and recognize artistic excellence. Artistic disciplines rotate every two years among visual, performing, literary, and folk & traditional arts. No match is required.
- Traditional Arts Apprenticeships support master/apprentice teams that advance the practice of folk and traditional arts and occupational trades found in all Idaho communities, so that such art forms and trades will thrive. No match is required.

Non-Granting Programs and Services

- The ArtsPowered Learning: An Idaho Education Framework instructional resource assists educators in schools and community settings to deliver effective arts instruction, supporting the arts and humanities standards and increasing literacy, creativity, and critical thinking.
- The Idaho Change Leader Institute hones arts managers' skills in organizational and change management, in partnership with the Utah Division of Arts and Museums and Colorado Creative Industries.
- Cash flow management tools and seminars, and organizational technical assistance strengthen the self-reliance and governance of not-for-profit arts organizations.
- The My Artpreneur artist business training workshops assist working artists to monetize their professions.
- Master-to-Master convenings bring together folk & traditional arts practitioners to learn from each other and advance their trades and occupations.
- The Community Scholar program teaches local citizenry to document and preserve their own communities.
- The Writer in Residence program provides writing workshops in educational and correctional settings.
- Poetry Out Loud, the National Poetry Recitation Contest motivates high school students across Idaho to master the classics of poetry in the English language through memorization and recitation, accomplished in partnership with the National Endowment for the Arts and the Poetry Foundation.
- Special projects are conducted, such as the biennial Governor's Awards in the Arts, Idaho's highest honorific in the arts, next scheduled in FY 2022.

Performance Measure Explanatory Notes

The current plan was developed in the context and continuity of plans that came before. The 2010 and 2016 plans responded to constituent requests to simplify grantmaking and increase non-granting professional services. Across ten years, the agency increased the value of grants even as grant amounts decreased—by reducing the paperwork to apply and increasing grant reliability. The plans launched the use of grant reports to review grantees' organizational cash flow data to identify cash flow issues in arts institutions. And the plans expanded the delivery of actionable information as well, providing professional services for artists, arts managers, and educators.

In Fall 2018, a visioning session of the commissioners set the stage for renewed strategic planning. This was followed by a gathering of 29 arts-in-healthcare practitioners from across the state, to investigate what was working in the use of the arts in healing in Idaho, what wasn't, and how to bridge the gaps. Regional public planning meetings followed in Summer 2019. Local hosts, agency staff, and commissioners facilitated 15 regional planning meetings, disbursed across every region of the state, including travel to "the places in between," as well as online solicitations. 273 people participated in person and a handful online. A single focus question was offered: "In what ways can you and the Idaho Commission on the Arts encourage greater participation in cultural activities in your community?" Common aspirations emerged, expressed in regional voices. They affirmed the value of the services implemented across the two previous plans and offered insights toward the next. Access to resources and to arts education for children remained high priorities. A new insight was that many of the aspirations presented in the regional planning meetings could be addressed through community cultural planning.

Economically, rural communities had benefited less from the ten-year bull market than their urban counterparts. And then, as the COVID-19 pandemic emerged in Spring 2020, rural and urban Idahoans suffered the economic and cultural program stoppages together. As economic renewal and participation in the arts expand over the coming years, the artistic heritage of communities offers asset-based opportunities for a new economic prosperity, based in local initiative, local creativity, and local ownership.

With this plan, the Idaho Commission on the Arts endeavors to enrich the creative lives of Idahoans through grants and non-granting services, supporting public access to the arts, access to quality arts education, and a thriving arts marketplace. The plan is annually reviewed, updated, and extended.
